

Mirrored (Follow Your Bliss series Book 4)

Alex Stihl, notorious rocker, known for food fights, guitar wars, and riots, found love on the road with wild-child Brighton Holmes, eventually calming his alcohol-infused mayhem. At the end of his bands summer tour, he wants nothing more than to spend a few quiet weeks by the sea with his guitar and his girl. When he discovers her reluctance to visit is because her mom faces a health crisis, his attention turns to his own mother who split when he was born, leaving him cracked with insecurity and anger. After Brighton relents and books a ticket to the UK, Alex gives her a tour of the London her late father knew, splintering her old grief. Their trip to see his grave brings relief, and a week spent in Alexs hometown in Scotland, draws out mischief. All the while, paparazzi harass them, culminating in a frenzied night when Alex says goodbye to his dying mother, an impromptu performance at a rock club, and band-member Finn revealing hes taken up with Alexs crazy ex-girlfriend, and then quits the band. When Brighton discovers film, photos, and articles intended to grind up Alexs reputation in the industry fame machine, chaos ensues on the damp streets of Glasgow. If he can tear himself from the madness, his biggest hit will include a sunset in the sand and a duet with his girl. This follow-up novella for the contemporary romance, In the Desert, brings readers back to Brighton and Alexs rock-and-roll world. Book Four in the Follow your Bliss Series, Mirrored can be read after In the Desert, or as a stand-alone, short story filled with love, music, betrayal, and forgiveness.
