

Shadow Hills: Fallen Hero

Note to Readers: Please Read the sample, and be sure to read the About the Series note I left for the readers. This series is different and it is written exactly how I wanted it to be written. It is not an accidental series; every book is as it should be. The structure is described right at the start of each of the books in the series. This series comprises Novella length stories that build on each other as they go. So please, Read the sample and be sure to read the About the Series section to see if this is a series you would be interested in reading? As I mentioned there, and here, it is not the same as every other book out there, nor is it meant to be the same. February will be up in a couple weeks and it takes up from where January left off, so I hope you all have a chance to read and enjoy all of the books in this series. Thanks to my readers who are venturing on my writing journeys with me. I greatly appreciate having you all reading my work. Now, onto the book details. Small towns, big secrets. Tanner Price, former Marine and now sheriff of Shadow Hills, thought he just might die of boredom until a mysterious woman arrived in town. Now all he can think about is uncovering this sexy vixen's secret. Getting close to her could be dangerous. Will putting one woman's betrayal behind him and opening his heart to love again turn out to be a mistake?
